

Creativity and Leisure: An Intercultural and Cross-disciplinary Journal

Volume 1 2012 Number 2

CONTENTS

Creativity in Boundary Crossing: An Introduction to the Second Issue of CLICJ 75
Ai-Girl Tan

Lead Paper I

From Dichotomous to Relational Thinking in the Psychology of Creativity: 83
A Review of Great Debates
Vlad Petre Glăveanu

Commentary 1

Let's Leave Some Room for "Thirdness" 97
Beth A. Hennessey

Commentary 2

Dichotomous and Relational Logic in Creativity Research and Beyond 101
Eric Shiu

Commentary 3

Questions and Representations for Relational Thinking 105
Akio Kikuchi and Mashahiro Oku

Commentary 4

Middle and Grand Theorizing in the Psychology of Creativity 109
Maciej Karwowski

Commentary 5

Is Relational Theory a Better Answer to the Psychology of Creativity 115 in the Lights of Cross-disciplinary and Cross-cultural Approaches?
Anna N. N. Hui and Y. B. Leung

Response

Dichotomies and Creativity: The Good, the Bad, the Ugly, and the Beautiful 121
Vlad Petre Glăveanu

Lead Paper II

- Culture, Leisure, and Creativity: Anthropological and Comparative Perspectives 125
Garry Chick

Commentary 1

- Does Culture Modulate Creativity and Leisure or Their Conceptions? 151
Alessandro Antonietti

Commentary 2

- Leisure: A New Avenue to Uncover Human Creativity 155
Dominika Dej

Commentary 3

- Leisure: A Time to Do Something Creative 161
Radhi Raja

Response

- Leisure, Culture, and Creativity: Response to Antonietti, Dej, and Raja 165
Garry Chick

Lead Paper III

- Meeting the Challenges of Uncertain Times: The Importance of (Critical) Interdisciplinary Research 171
Heather Mair

Commentary 1

- Toward Collaboration of Disciplines on Leisure 183
Reggie Pawle

Commentary 2

- The Intersection of Psychology and Leisure Studies After March 11, 2011 189
in Japan
Mayumi Oie

Paper I

- Culture-based Creativity: Concept and Applications 195
Ananda Kumar Palaniappan

Paper II

- Fostering Creativity in an Asian University: A Social Psychology Perspective 205
Beth A. Hennessey

Paper III

- Towards Cross-disciplinary Creativity 219
Ai-Girl Tan

Report

- Creativity for a Better Life: An Interview with Peter Chen 233
Ai-Girl Tan